

Privacy Policy

Data processing purposes

If you fill out a contact form on the website or send us an email, the data you send us will be retained as long as it is necessary for the complete reply and completion.

Processing of personal data is done in a manner that is in accordance with the requirements set by the Dutch Data Protection Act.

Use of cookies

We use cookies. A cookie is a simple text file sent with pages from this website and stored by your browser on your computer. This enables us to analyze the behavior of visitors. You may refuse the use of these cookies, although this may limit the functionality and ease of use of the website.

Google Analytics

We use Google Analytics to track how visitors use the website. This information is stored by Google on servers in the United States, together with the address of your computer (IP address). Google uses this information to keep track of how our website is used to provide us with reports about the website and to provide its advertisers with information about the effectiveness of their campaigns.

Google may provide this information to third parties if Google is required to do so by law, or in so far as these third parties process information on behalf of Google. We have no influence on this.

Social media

This site includes buttons to promote or share pages on Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn. These buttons are realized by code provided by Facebook and Twitter and LinkedIn itself. This code includes a cookie (see above).

Read the privacy statement of Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn (which may change regularly) to see what they are doing with the personal information they process with this code.

Customize privacy statement

We reserve the right to modify this privacy statement. Changes will be published on this website.
